SHE SAYS THE ASSIGNEE IS INSOLVENT.

ASSERTING THAT A CONSPIRACY HAS BEEN FORMED AGAINST HER-CHARGES

AGAINST A LAWYER. motion was made yesterday in the United States District Court before Judge Renedict to remove Julius C. Lehman as assignee in bankruptey of the William A. Hoar, who died in 1885 and left his estate in a complicated condition. petition for the removal of Lehman is made by Mrs. Charlotte Hoar, the widow and administratrix, through her attorneys, Guggenheimer & Untermeyer, charge that a scheme has been concocted to have Lehman, who, it is asserted, was absolutely insolvent, appointed assignee on a worthless bond. As soon as Mrs. Hoar discovered this alleged fraud, she obtained from Judge Benedict an order to show cause why Lehman should not be removed from his trust. Mrs. Hoar's first allegation is that Lehman was appointed at the instance of Henry Daily, Jr., who represented to her that Lehman was a good and responsible person to be appointed assignee, and that he would give a good bond for a faithful discharge of his trust. She alleges that she has since found that Daily well knew that Lehman was insolvent and worthless at the time the appointment was obtained. In support of this she sets forth a number of judgments against Lehman existing at the time and asserts that only a few months prior to his appointment Lehman was examined in supplementary proceedings in which he disclosed the fact that he was insolvent.

The petitioner alleges that Lehman is simply a "convenience" in the office of Daily, and that he has several times been dispossessed for non-payment of house rent. Mrs. Hoar also declares that Otto Winter, who went surety for Lehman on his bond, is a "straw" bondsman. To sustain this statement she sets forth a number of unsatisfied judgments which have been obtained against Winter in different courts. She alleges that she has reason to believe that Daily and Lehman both were aware of this fact at the time they obtained him as bondsman. She asserts that at the time he executed the bond he was insolvent, and that since the execution he has been examined in supplementary proceedings on several of the un-satisfied judgments against him. On one occasion sho alloged that while under oath Winter swore that he had owned no property with which he could satisfy a judgment for the last four years, although this bond was executed less than two years ago and when he executed it he swore he was worth $5,000. petitioner also alleges that Lehman has for many years been engaged in soliciting clients for Daily, and she asserts that he has no business or business standing except that he professes to be a real estate agent but has no known office. As to the habits of Lehman, she alleges that she has good reason to believe that both he and the bondsman, Winter, are habitual drunk-ards, having been frequently seen under the influence of liquor. She further avers that the claims against the estate proved in bankruptcy amount only to $2,500 and that all above this amount belongs to her

Although the matter has been in the hands of Lehman for the last two years, she alleges that he has only brought one suit to set aside a fraudulent judgment amounting, with interest, to about $10,000. She is informed and believes that Lehman intends to pay Daily whatever amount he may ask for his services in connection with the estate and she denies that she ever promised to give Daily one-third of the estate has procured all the evidence herself with no cost to Daily, paid all the disbursements of the various proceedings and given him the services of her grown who left a $900 place to go with Daily, for two years, during which time he has acted as a clerk in his office, paying his own expenses and receiving no com-pensation whatever during all this time,

Ex-Judge Dittenhoefer, who appeared as counsel for the petitioner, recited all the above facts substantfally and Mr. Daily denied everything and said that these judgments against the assignee had all been wiped out and that the assignee was now ready to give a good and sufficient bond. Ex-Judge Dittenhoefer, in reply to this, said that he had an affidavit which would prove that Lehman had in one instance, to say the least, obtained the discharge of the judgment against him by telling the holder that it was utterly worthless and if tt was satisfied he might be able to obtain an assigneeship or retain one out of which he could make some money. Judge Benedict gave Lehman ten days in which to produce a bond of $20,000, given by two good bondsmen. If Lehman does not file the bond in that time Lehman shall be displaced. This case is filled with queer incidents. In or about

Before the domestic difficulties arose he had conveyed to his wife a piece of property in Brooklyn. legal warfare. She refused to give it up and then which has since involved the estate, began. avowed intention of recovering possession of the property he employed a man, it is said, to pile up frauduleut judgments against him. This done, Hoar flooded hi-wife with creditors' actions in the names of his friends All these she defeated. As a consequence of these creditors' suits, the property given her was finally sold under foreclosure sale. Hoar subsequently got the property in his own name. Shortly after this he went into bankruptey. He purchased property which he placed in the name of his nephew. William H. H. Hoar, Altogether he died leaving a large amount of property. It was so well covered up by the taking of title in names of friends and relatives that Mrs. Hoar never received a cent of allimony. After his death in 1885, however, it was discovered that the property had belonged to him, and Mrs. Hoar took possession of it. She was not long in undisturbed possession, however, for the old judgments were revived. She was again harassed with suit after suit, and finally placed the matter in the hands of Henry Daily, Ir., who advised her that the bankruptey processings against her husband should be continued and the estate and differences settled through the lankrupt Court. This was the way Assignee Lehman came into the matter. All these she defeated. As a consequence of the

MILLER HAD MANY YOUNG WOMEN FRIENDS. The life of Hugh C. Miller, the self-confessed incendiary, is being carefully looked into in order to ascertain if possible any clew to his extraordinary course in taking up arson as a diversion. Miller was highly respected by his associates and by his activity in social and church life gained much popularity. He wa- an especial favorite with young women in the social organizations with which he was connected. He recently assisted in founding a council of the Triennia League, a social benefit organization, and was made marshal of it. It has already been made public that he was frequently in company with Miss North, a teacher in Public School No. 1. He also escorted Miss Katic Cooney, of Allenst, New York, to a ball in Samperbund Hall on March 17. It is regarded as a suspicious circumstance that he went home with her after midnight and that a tail fire occurred at Allen and Hester sts. New York, at 3:15 on that morning, and four persons lost their lives.

A SITE FOR THE BEECHER STATUE. THE COMMITTEE DECIDES TO PLACE IT IN

FRONT OF THE CITY HALL. The committee in charge of the collection of funds for the crection of the statue of Henry Ward Beecher the work upon which has been nearly completed by J. Q. A. Ward, has decided to place the statue in City Hall Park instead of on the site selected some time agin Prospect Park. The matter will have to be aped by the Park Commissioners before it is finally

The date decided upon for the unveiling of the statue is June 24, Mr. Beecher's birthday. The orator of the occasion will be President Seth Low, of Columbia Col-Mayor Chapin will preside at the exercises. Dr Charles H. Hall, chairman of the committee, will present the statue to the Park Commission, and it will be accepted by Commissioner George V. Brower, who in turn will present it to the city, and Mayor Chapin will The 13th Regiment, of which Mr. Beecher was chaplain, will not as a guard of honor exercises, and a Christian clergyman and a Hebrew rabbi will open and close the exercises with prayer.

When the subscriptions-amounting to about $35,000 -for the statue were secured the question of a suitable site was considered. Mrs. Beecher expressed a strong preference for the vicinity of the City Hall or Court House, where she said "Mr. Beecher passed through his Gethsemane," but Prospect Park was felt to be far more suitable and a place where the statue would be visited with much more reverent feelings than in the heart of the great city, amid the bustle of trade and The elevated road in front of the City Hall was regarded as detracting greatly from the availability of the small park there as a site for the statue.

It was decided some time ago to remove the Irving bust from where it stands, opposite the Flower Garden in Prospect Park, and put the Beecher statue there. This decision will have to be reconsidered if the Park Commissioners grant a new site in front of the City Hall. It is believed that the ungority of the persons interested think Prospect Park the best place for the memorial of the great preacher.

THE BOYCOTT APPARENTLY ENDED. ILL-FEELING STIRRED UP BY THE APPOINT

MENT OF A NEGRO ON THE POLICE FORCE. The trouble over the new colored policeman in the First Precinct assumed a serious form yesterday, by the practical boycott of him by the white policemen with whom he is associated. They refused to sleep in the same coom with him when he is off duty at the police station. When Overton was appointed on the police force and was assigned to the First Precinct, he had to begin duty in plain clothes, as none of his fellow-policemen would let him wear any of their old uniforms. He had to wait until his own uniform was ready before he could appear for regular duty.

It is said that the men who were being drilled by Inspector McLaughlin last week were ready to mutiny if Overton had been placed in the ranks with them, but the danger was averted when he was bidden to look on before being placed in the awkward squad. Overtoo went on regular post on Wednesday, and was relieved shortly before midnight. His cot had been assigned to him to be occupied when on reserve duty at the station, and he went to it. As soon as he appeared in the sleeping-room, the other men there got up and for his services, as he asserts. On the other hand, she dressed and went downstairs, where they remained in the general room assigned to them. On Thursday night the same thing occurred.

Overton went to Police Captain Campbell, his superior, and stated the facts, and Captain Campbell told him that he saw no objection to the men leaving their cots if they disturbed no one. Yesterday Captain Campbell made a teport in the matter to Police Super

Superintendent Campbell, in conversation with a Tribune reporter, said that he thought the trouble would right itself. There were colored policemen is other cities who got along all right with white men Overton had conducted himself in an exemplary man ner since he was appointed, and he made every efforto get along quietly in his place. In regard to sleeping at the police stations, the superintendent said, the me had time to sleep at home when off duty, save in emer gencies, but when on reserve duty they preferred to sleep at the police stations. If the men preferred to sit up rather than to sleep in the same room with Over ton, they could do so, provided it did not interfere with their keeping themselves in proper physical condition

When Overton returned to the police station in Adams-st. last evening he went to the room where

Adams st. last evening he went to the room where his cot was placed and went to bed. The white men assigned to sleep in the same room were already there, and they remained and made no further effort to refuse to recognize their colored associate as entitled to all the privileges of a member of the police force.

Police Captain Campbell had made a speech to the men earlier in the evening, in which he to'll them that they were acting foolishly. While he recognized the race feeling which had existed for centuries, overton was not to blame for his color, and the other men were not to hiame for their feeling in the matter, limt the law placed him among them, and he should not be discriminated against by reason of an arcident of birth. The captain's remarks produced the intended effect, and the men slept in their usual places last night until called out to go on post.

NEWS FROM NEW-JERSEY.

JERSEY CITY.

FIRING A SHOT INTO THE RING. Ex-Judge Roderick B. Seymour, on behalf of the Republican General Committee, has fired a shot into the ranks of the Democratic ring that has created the wildest sort of consternation in that body, cently the Democratic majority of the Board of Aldermen adopted a resolution to redistrict the city and change the boundary lines of the Aldermanic districts. This resulted in one of the worst pieces of gerry mandering that ever took place in this city, or ever in the State. The objects of the Democrats was to secure five of the six districts. The ward or district lines were changed under an act of the last Legislature giving the Aldermen that right.

On Thursday night ex-Judge Seymour served a notice on W. D. Edwards, Corporation Counsel, that he would apply to day to Judge Depue, at Newark, for a writ of certiorari to have the resolution to redistrict reviewed by the Supreme Court. brief, but pertinent. It set forth that the act of the Legislature was "special and local, and unconstitu tional"; that the law provided the lines should only be changed after the Mayor had approved the resolution, which was not done; that such change of lines should have been made by an ordinance; that the resolution could only be passed by a majority of all the members of the Board, and that two Aldermen were not present at the meeting.

were not present at the meeting.

If Judge Depuse grants the writ to-day both parties will be compelled to hold new primaries and make nominations under the old ward lines, unless the Judge directs that the writ shall not act as a stay. Ex-Judge Seymour said to a Tribune reporter yesterday that Judge Depue could also grant a rule to show cause why the writ should not be issued. This rule would not be returnable until June and would not prevent the election of Aldermen under the new district lines, but if in June, when the case would be argued, the act of the Aldermen in making the new lines was declared illegal, the six Aldermen elected would have no right to serve in the Roand. Aldermen are elected for two years. Ex-Judge Seymour said he was confident of winning the fight.

HANGING HIMSELF FROM THE ROOF OF A BARN. An unknown man committed safeide on Thursday afternoon on the farm of Jeptha Wagner, who lives near Mount Bethel, about five miles west of Plainfield. He first made his appearance in the neighborhood three days ago, when he asked John Redmond for em ployment. He was well dressed and the refinement of his manner and his soft white hands indicated that he was a man of good breeding and one not used to hard work. His mind seemed to be greatly burdened with sorrow, but he was uncommunicative. At noon Thursday he slipped away from his work and went over to the adjoining farm of Jeptha Wagner. Climbing to the roof of the barn, he tied the end of a short rope about a beam, slipped the other, already noosed and knotted, over his head, clasped his hands together and leaped from the gable of the building. This act was seen by Mrs. Wagner, who was alone at home. Before she could obtain help the man was dead. The county physician has ordered an inquest.

We do not know of any other stores in this city where man or boy may be completely clothed from head to foot. It is often an advantage to have one's shopping condensed, as it may be done in either of our three places; especially when only good things are dealt in.

The character of our clothing has been raised steadily year by year until now our new trade in men's clothing comes chiefly from the former wearers of custom garments. Of course our prices have to be below custom rates; but we do not skimp our cloth or tailoring to produce a very low price or permit a large profit. $20 to $30 buys a thoroughly satisfactory Overcoat or Suit; and, in the spring, we sell many. excellent ones for $15 to $20.

It goes without saying that, with our large outlet and ample facilities, we do not permit ourselves to be surpassed either in the quality or prices of Furnishing Goods, Hats or Shoes. Our stores will be open this evening.
